10th Edition

AVI comes of age!

The 10th International Working Conference on Advanced Visual Interfaces (AVI'10) will be held in Rome, Italy, May 25-29, 2010. Started in 1992 in Rome, and held every two years in different Italian towns, the Conference brings together experts in different areas of computer science who have a common interest in the conception, design, and implementation of visual and, more generally, perceptual interfaces. Through these 18 years, the Conference has witnessed the growing interest within the community for new interaction paradigms and new devices such as smartphones and PDAs, in the framework of both traditional and emerging environments, such as ubiquitous and pervasive computer applications. Both formal methods and concrete applications well fit into the framework of the conference, whose program also includes invited talks, given by leaders in the field.

Scientific Program

AVI 2010 has received a total of 167 submissions in different categories. 27 full papers out of 133 (20%) and 11 short papers out of 34 (32%) have been selected for presentation, discussing the major achievements in the area of visual and perceptual interfaces. 20 posters and 7 system papers/demos have also been selected, offering a wide spectrum of on-going developments and practical experiences.

The Proceedings are published by ACM Press.

Invited Speakers

- Daniel Keim, University of Konstanz
- Pat Lynch, Yale University
- Daniel Wigdor, User Experience Architect at Microsoft

Workshops and Tutorials

In addition to the scientific program, tutorials and workshops are also planned. Tutorials provide conference participants with the opportunity to gain new insights in the area of advanced visual interfaces, and workshops provide an informal setting where participants have the opportunity to discuss specific topics in an atmosphere that fosters the active exchange of ideas.

More information on accepted paper list, workshops and tutorials in the AVI 2010 web site <http://www.dis.uniroma1.it/avi2010>.
